BUILDING AND DECORATING

Renew house and life-style

We have met Bonini Edili, one of the most qualified companies for the restoring of ancient and modern buildings

Our present houses are a mixture of innovations, especially about the energetic efficiency. So, the company that work in the construction field are requested to constantly renew themselves and to fix their attention on the newest construction materials, trying to bring out the buildings to reduce the environment impact but also paying attention to the aesthetic point of view. This is the context where the Bonini Construction from Montemurlo (PO) (boninicostruzioni.it) works. A family construction business, whose trademarks are the quality and the satisfaction of the customers. This company has been working for years in the field of recovering of the existing construction heritage, this company is able to respond to every kind of request, also coming from a very exacting customers, with its particular care for details, research of the best quality in materials and technique innovations. "The present way of construction has changed a lot, compared to ten years ago. Nowadays, our customers don't ask just to construct their houses, but they look for a new product, good for the environment, orientated to a better quality of health and life, so we have to be organized to carry out that kind of requested comfort" this is how the members introduce their company, that is able to put together the experience of the founders Silvano e Miriano with the technological innovations of their sons Luca and Alessio. "To be able to give a high quality final product, you must love your work and always take some risks. After a big work of development, today we can count on the newest and best equipping and on a passionate and vey expert staff (chosen carefully after a long selection). Everything to guarantee to our customers those quality standards for whose we are well-known".
